Today is the Feast of the Holy Trinity and we hear first from the OT book of Exodus. The mystery we call God is both near and distant; both familiar and frightening. Moses understands and reacts to both realities. In awed reverence he bows before the Lord; but he also asks for-giveness for his stiff-necked people in much the same way a class president might petition the principal on behalf of classmates who pulled a harmful senior prank and still hope to graduate. Remember that Moses is making a return trip up the mountain with a second set of tablets that re-places the first pair he angrily smashed when he found the Israelites worshipping the golden calf. We're told that our God is "slow to anger and rich in kindness" and willingly forgives the people. But God has also commanded Moses to return to him and he does so by bowing to the ground in worship.

Our second reading are the final three verses of Paul's second letter to the Corinthians. They are the parting words of a pastor who longs for his people to exercise right behavior and peace in the community. Paul uses four strong verbs, "mend, encourage, agree, live" to express his feelings. Elsewhere in the letter, Paul's words are strong and harsh; but here he ends like the calm that follows a storm. The final sentence which is the opening greeting at a funeral Mass is consid-ered the New Testament's most unambiguous articulations of the Trinity. Paul renders it as a parting blessing to his flock.

This much beloved and often quoted section of John's gospel also poses a difficult question: how could a loving God condemn someone to hell? God's love is unconditional, but love proffered can be rejected. Condemnation, then, is not God's choice but our own. By the choices we make we begin living our eternal destiny here on earth. Jesus is speaking to Nicodemus, as sin-cere a seeker as there ever was, and he affirms the generosity of God's love as manifested in God's willingness to give his only Son. Jesus is speaking with deep conviction flowing from his intimate knowledge of the Father and his aware-ness that he is the Son who will be given up for the world. Lest Nicodemus misunderstand, Jesus explains further that God did not send his Son to condemn the world, but to save it. "Whoever be-lieves" does not refer to accidents in history but a personal decision to accept Christ as savior. "Whoever does not believe" speaks of those who have encountered Christ and reject his light.

We are in a series of Sundays set aside for par-ticular homage. We began last week with the Feast of Pentecost, today with the Feast of the Holy Trinity and next Sunday with the Feast of Corpus Christi, Latin for the Body of Christ. And, then, this year the following Sunday is the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul. We will then return to Or-dinary Time with the priest wearing green vest-ments.

I recently purchased a new purple chasuble for St. Patrick's for use during Lent and Advent. If anyone is interested in donating this as a memo-rial to someone, please contact me. The cost of the chasuble was $300.

I have a crazy idea and I wonder if there might be any interest. As I sit at United Way meetings, at the Erie Community Foundation annual meeting, and board meetings of BEST (Bayfront Eastside Task Force), etc., I hear constantly about the poverty in Erie and about single moms trying to raise children. I'm wondering if St. Patrick's Parish might be in a position to help some of these women and their children. What if we got some volunteers who have expertise in home repairs, carpentry, auto repairs, even homemak-ing and healthy food issues. We could use finan-cial people who could help these women under-stand budgeting and simple financial issues. Maybe we could put together a volunteer group and reach out to some of these women, ease their burden, give their children a better chance at life and simply share the skills that each of us have. There are a lot of people in the parish who know how to change the oil in a car, tune up an engine, repair a leaky sink, fix a broken screen, work out a budget, plan healthy eating, etc. Can you imagine what that would mean to a single mom who has no idea how to do those things? If anyone is interested, contact the parish office and perhaps we could hold a meeting and talk about the idea and see what we might be able to do. Being an inner city parish is more than a beautiful church and great liturgies. We need to always help those who are less fortunate. It might just be a crazy idea but the only way we are go-ing to conquer the poverty in Erie is if all of us lend a helping hand. Think about it and let's talk about it.

I am happy to report that the CSA pledges for St. Patrick's now total $62,000. With an assessment of $42,000, that gives me $20,000 that I can apply toward the debt for the restoration. Thank you for your generosity.

We've been doing a lot of work at St. Patrick's recently, and it's been like living in a construction site! As you know, we replaced the roof on the Food Pantry. We have just installed central A/C in the first floor of the rectory. A large fir tree was removed from the yard between the church and the rectory as it was in danger of falling. You can notice that we have a number of new sections of sidewalk. I'll replace sections of the sidewalk each year until we are completed, but it is just too expensive to do all at once. We also have to dig up the parking lot behind the rectory because the drain is plugged and every time it rains we have a lake back there. That has to be repaired before the Festival.

Speaking of the Festival, Holy Trinity Parish is letting us rent a great deal of the kitchen equipment that we will need, and the rent is so minimal that we are saving a great deal of money. We are now in the process of getting permission from the city to close Fourth Street from the Tuesday before the festival until the following Monday so that we can get the tents up, lighting installed, the booths in place, etc. It's all coming together. We recently had a meeting of the committee chairs, and I think there is genuine excitement about it.

A young couple invited the elderly pastor for dinner. While they were in the kitchen preparing the meal, the pastor asked their son what we are having for dinner. "Goat," the little boy replied. "Goat?" asked the pastor. "Are you sure about that?" "Yes," said the youngster. "I heard dad say to mom 'We might as well have the old goat for dinner today as any other day.'"

Prior to giving the benediction at an Irish wedding reception, the priest said, "Would all the married men please stand next to the one person who has most made your life worth living." The bartender was almost crushed to death.

A Moment of Reflection

Reading I: Exodus 34:4-9

Gospel: John 3:16-18

In reflecting on the Trinity, we are entering the realm of mystery. A myriad of examples are used: Patrick with the shamrock, a triangle, but it still remains a mystery. At various times in our life, the idea is Trinity changes because growing in faith means that God is not just one or the other of the different persons of God but all aspects of God engulf our faith life. When our understanding of God moves from our head to our heart and God - Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are integral to our daily living, the mystery becomes one of awe and wonder. When, if ever, have you come to realize that God loves you unconditionally?
